Pearson Is Named President Of Club At Yearly Election

Maston Renamed Sect'y,
Is Given Vote of Thanks For Work.

Vernon E. Pearson, Southern Pacific roadmaster and an active civic worker, was elected president of the Truckee Outing Club at the annual election held last week. He succeeds Y. Nobles, who has successfully guided the destinies of the winter sports group here during the past two years.

Nobles was elected treasurer and Chester Maston was re-elected secretary and given a vote of appreciation for the work he has accomplished during the past season. Robert W. Seibold was renamed vice president and W. M. Englehart, Sr., Walter M. Barrett and Robert Bowers were named as additional members of the board of directors.

A financial report showed the club about "even with the board." A membership drive last fall brought in some money but the proposed subscription from business places was not carried out during the past season. As a result the treasury was depleted, but it was reported sufficient cash will be available to meet all current obligations.

LIONS CLUB TAKES MEMBERSHIP IN LOCAL CHAMBER

Motion pictures of local interest were shown members of the Truckee Lions Club last night by A. P. Fontana, the program chairman, following an interesting meeting of the club. The pictures were made by Fontana and depicted the beauty of the area.

A general discussion of the chamber of commerce program featured the meeting and the club voted to take a $40 membership in the civic organization. The committee from the chamber, H. T. Langille, V. C. Shattuck and O. H. Sanders plans to contact other organizations with a view of interesting them also in the necessity of financing the chamber of commerce.

SKI MEETS SLATED AT SUGAR BOWL IN COMING MONTH

SUGAR BOWL, Mar. 26—Invitations were sent to California registered clubs for the state class A ski meet to be held at Sugar Bowl on April 4 and 5.

The downhill will be run twice from the top of Disney Peak over the Eagle Test course on Saturday. The tentative starting time has been set at 1:00 p.m., subject to snow and weather conditions.

The slalom will be run off the face of the lower half of Disney. The starting time is tentatively set at 11:00 a.m. Sunday.

It has been decided to definitely hold the third annual Silver Belt trophy race on Sunday, April 19. From the interest shown by the racers competing in Yosemite in the National Two-Way meet on March 13 and 14, the hosts, Sugar Bowl Ski Club and the San Francisco Junior Chamber of Commerce, anticipate a fine entry of national stars.

CHAMBER SESSION DRAWS 22 Drive For Funds To Continue

Despite several counter attractions, 22 members of the Truckee Chamber of Commerce met at Capitol Hall on Friday evening to discuss plans for future activities of the booster organization. The full support of those present was promised to keep the chamber active and a committee comprising H. T. Langille, V. C. Shattuck and O. H. Sanders volunteered to contact those not at the meeting to determine their attitude on the proposed program.

The directors have agreed to carry out, so far as possible, the program planned last winter, but which was delayed because of lack of financial support, if sufficient funds can be raised to make the work worthwhile. If this is found to be impossible then they agreed that perhaps a small scale organization, set up for routine duties, might have to be resorted to, although this did not appeal to those at the Friday meeting.

Members offered a variety of plans and valuable suggestions, but the plans and suggestions require a small outlay and until this handicap can be overcome, only the most vital needs can be cared for.

Another meeting of the directors will be held in the near future when the result of the committee's findings will be aired.

Dan D. Smith, 63, Passes Away After Life Of Service

Rev. Willis Conducts Last
Rite For Victim of Stroke
At Methodist Church.

Last rites were held at the Community Methodist Church here on Tuesday morning for Daniel D. Smith, 63, a native and life-long resident of Truckee, who died in a Reno hospital Sunday morning shortly after midnight following a stroke which he suffered Saturday evening.

Rev. P. H. Willis of Sparks, a retired Methodist minister and close friend of the Smiths, officiated. Interment was in the Oakland cemetery where his mother was buried several years ago.

Smith was associated with many of the outstanding developments of the district. He was one of the fore-sighted men who worked for and secured the highway through the Truckee canyon now part of Highway 40. He was the head of the Truckee Motion Picture Association which was responsible for bringing many Hollywood companies here in the past and promoted many other valuable civic projects. He was active throughout his life in the welfare of the community and was considered a valuable and highly esteemed resident. His death was a blow to Truckee and the district.

Smith had been in poor health for months, but Saturday suffered the fatal stroke. He was rushed to Reno by N. F. Dolley but was beyond medical help.

The deceased was survived by his widow, Mrs. Tillie Smith; a sister, Mrs. Lulu Behler of Oakland and a step-son, Karl L. Kiehofer of Truckee. A grandson, Karl K. Kiehofer, is in the army at Camp Walters, Texas.

Seventy-two hours of navigation, service of aircraft and meteorology are basic requirements for completion of primary training.

Private licenses are given for 35 to 40 hours of flight following the primary course. Secondary training includes 103 hours of ground school and 40 to 45 hours of flight. Physical requirements for CPT are high. Examinations are the same as given for the army air corps.

The attendance at Friday night's meeting of the chamber of commerce was not at all encouraging, but many counter attractions, we are sure were responsible, and not the lack of interest and complete apathy on the part of those affected. The chamber of commerce has been active and will continue to be active, but it cannot serve the purpose which it should without the financial support of all who will profit by the proposed program. The fact that only 22 attended the meeting Friday was not unexpected. As a matter of fact we were surprised that so many evidenced, by their appearance, a desire to carry on and we can safely predict that with 22 ready and willing to aid in the program and with the financial support of that many others, a worthwhile program can be worked out. To support this, we are informed that none of those who paid their money into the fund last fall under promise that it would be returned if the program failed, have asked for a cent and most of them ate in the advancement of Truckee, have volunteered their share to go toward whatever schedule of activities can be arranged. That's a fine spirit and shows a desire to cooperate. We hope that those who do wish their money returned would call at the Bank of America for it in the near future so a fresh start can be made.

Truckee's newest industry, The Placer Flying Service, which is operating a student flying school at the airport near here is proving to be a valuable asset to the community as well as a promising educational unit for scores of young men who are desirous of learning to fly. A visit to the field Sunday revealed 25 students of the Sacramento Junior College, with three or four able instructors, going through the paces. Planes are mounted on skis as snow still covers the field and the hangar is still not completed to the satisfaction of the owners, but all in all we were delighted with the activities and can foresee a great future for the field as well as for the school and its hard working sponsors. These men have well earned the respect of Truckee in going against odds into a venture which had many doubts, but despite these odds they are on their way and we should all join in wishing them and their students all possible success. The chamber of commerce and others may be proud of the small parts they played in establishing the school here.

If rumors can be relied upon, the San Francisco Flycasting Club may not feed and raise trout fry at their tanks this year. This is unwelcome news, if true, but also unavoidable. Truckee, as usual, stands prepared to do its share in the fish raising but is hardly equipped to do it alone. Maybe we will have to find a solution or maybe we will depend upon the huge plantings by the state for our most coveted harvest.

by LYTLE HULL

With the exception of a few die-hard members of the old interventionist and isolationist pre-war parties—who seem more interested in blackening each other than they do in co-operating to defeat our external enemies—the people of this country are determined that we shall dictate the peace terms at the conclusion of this war.

There are always periods, during a long drawn out war, which both "faint hearts" and also some very clever people, believe propitious moment in which equitable peace terms should be suggested. Viewed from the standpoint of immediate expediency these peace proponents often have a strong argument on their side; but under certain circumstances the merest thought of terminating a war except through victory—must prove a fatal blunder.

This nation is the fortunate "victim" of just such circumstances. For if we ever allow ourselves to sue for peace in this or any other war—we will destroy for ourselves and for our posterity, that greatest of all offensive or defensive weapons; that weapon which our forefathers have welded for us in the last 150 years—the belief inherent in all real Americans that WE CAN NEVER BE DEFEATED.

We are today involved in what is popularly called a "life or death struggle." While this expression is not to be taken literally, it is not far from the actual truth. For if our side of this contest was finally beat-end, we—America—would have suffered DEFEAT; and though we could retire to our own country and defend it against all comers—the morale which is part of our makeup would have suffered; and the consciousness of DEFEAT would develop a destructive weakness—like a cancer—in our national being. Comparisons are usually odious—so are illustrations. But nevertheless an apt comparison is a world champion prizefighter. Why is it that these champions—once dethroned—"never come back"? They are just as strong, and they can box as well as before. But defeat has broken down their morale—and morale is 50 per cent of any struggle. A good illustration is France. France has suffered many defeats in her war-filled history. It is nothing new to her. She gave up this time as a matter of expediency. If she had fought on—as she did twice in the First World War when every ray of hope seemed gone—she might have suffered physically but have been spared the mental anguish and the far-reaching aftermath of defeat.

Today our side is getting the beating of a lifetime—except in Russia. But it is a mathematical certainty that the tide will turn; and if we were a hundred times wrong—we still must win it, regardless of any other consideration. For the day America allows someone to dictate a peace to her—that day she forfeits her self-assurance as the Unbeaten Champion of the World. That day she proves faithless to the trust in which she holds this land for her posterity. That day she loses that thing called morale, which, while it exists as part of her, will defend her freedom from without or from within.

The day will come when the nations of Europe are bled white and when the red blood of an unconquered people will be needed to save mankind from a long, long period of darkness. We must never even think peace until the enemy begs us to discuss it on our terms.

MY PLACE IN THE SUN

by DOUG BARKETT

In the passing of Dan Smith last Sunday, the Truckee-Tahoe-Donner area lost one of its most ardent boosters and greatest benefactors. While the sympathy of his host of friends goes forth to his widow, in a larger sense all of us who knew Dan and his works are his mourners. There is probably no man who was more directly responsible for the Victory Highway taking the course it did than Dan. The Truckee Motion Picture Association which was instrumental in bringing the Truckee and Tahoe-Sierra area to the attention of the motion picture industry as a site for locations was a particular field for Dan's tireless enterprise in behalf of his community. We must search in vain for a man who can take his place in this community.

The muse and the mood hit our poet laureate (Roy Allen Feathers, the barber bard of the Sierra) this week and he blossomed forth with the following epic opus entitled:

OUR DOGS

As I amble down the street
A dozen dogs I'm sure to meet.
Some are black and some are white,
Three or more are in a fight.
They yip and yowl then run away,
So they can fight another day.
Jack and Jerry, Mickey and Rome,
Nig and Rusty chewing a bone.
It's said a dog is man's best friend;
Others contend that they offend.
They're a nuisance, it's plain to see,
But I like them and they like me.
So as I amble down the street,
I have a pat for all I meet.

Prof. Samuel J. O. Holmes of the University of California says that the mercy killing of "hopeless incurables" are the "only humanitarian solution for people whose life is one of misery and pain." That is all very well, but who is to determine the "hopelessness" of the affliction. After all, it is an old tried truism that "where there is life there is hope" thus ruling out "mercy killings".

Invulnerable Armaments...

A DICTIONARY defines "invulnerable" as "incapable of being wounded or of receiving injury." Invulnerable armament, then, is armament that is incapable of being penetrated; and only spiritual armament is actually invulnerable. Everyone desires to feel secure and serene, to feel that there is an invulnerable protection shielding him at all times.

To know that every righteous thought and act has divine, hence invulnerable, protection and immunity from evil is a great joy and comfort to spiritually enlightened men and women. In the factory, office, home, on the highway, in the air—yes, even at the battle's front, if need be—he whose thought dwells in God has found the one invulnerable armament. No matter how sorely he is tried, how severely he is tempted, if his faith in God remains steadfast, if his allegiance to Truth, Life, and Love is firm, he will find true Mary Baker Eddy's words on page 277 of "Miscellaneous Writings," where she says: "No evidence before the material senses can close my eyes to the scientific proof that God, good, is supreme. Though clouds are round about Him, the divine justice and judgment are enthroned. Love is especially near in times of hate, and never so near as when one can be just amid lawlessness, and render good for evil."

The Psalmist proclaimed invulnerable the spiritual armament of the righteous, when he sang (Psalms 91: 1, 5, 7): "He that dwelleth in the secret place of the most High shall abide under the shadow of the Almighty. . . Thou shalt not be afraid for the terror by night; nor for the arrow that flieth by day. . . A thousand shall fall at thy side, and ten thousand at thy right hand; but it shall not come nigh thee." Invulnerable spiritual armament is practical and concrete, available in human experience. . . God, who is Life, Truth, and Love, is invulnerable.

EASTER

Easter means more to men in years of great travail, personal or national. To all men, of whatever faith, Easter symbolizes the triumph of faith and life over evil and death as no other day symbolizes it. This Easter finds the civilized world in the agony of its Gethsemane. To triumph over annihilation of all that freemen hold dear, the bitter cup of death, suffering and sorrow must be drunk by millions in many lands.

But as the Christ, after the sacrifice of his torment and death, rose from the tomb, so may Christian democracy, after the terrible sacrifices of war, rise triumphant to a new life of peace and happiness. This we may hope with stronger faith as we contemplate the miracle of the Resurrection on Easter Sunday.

LIBERTY OR DEATH

The Berlin radio proudly boasts that a Nazi patrol ship overtook five Norwegians in a sailing yacht, fleeing from their homeland in the hope of reaching England. All five were summarily shot. What is there to be proud of? A "New Order" which drives men to risk death by drowning, starvation or firing squad would seem to have a catch in it somewhere. Perhaps, as so much of the evidence indicates, the "New Order" is worse than death.

PLACER J. C. PUPILS PRESENT PROGRAM AT TAHOE THURSDAY

TAHOE CITY, Mar. 26—Students of Placer Junior College at Auburn, under the charge of their Dean Ernest Oertel, journeyed to Lake Tahoe school auditorium last Thursday to present their show "Televisor 1960" to Tahoe students, parents and friends. The show included a puppet show representing a modern orchestra with a master of ceremonies, Negro dancer and singer, and a girl singer and dancer.

The puppet show was a splendid presentation with the figures and equipment made entirely by the pupils themselves.

This was followed by movies showing, some in color, showing activities at Placer Junior College including sports, shop work, band choir, campus activities, officers and buildings all with an intermittent theme advocating attendance at the school. Interspersed in the show were various numbers including accordion duets, boys choruses, dramatic monologues and a fine duet by two girl singers.

Students and teachers of Meadow Lake Union High School at Truckee also motored up to attend the show which was one of the finest ever given at Tahoe.

INSTRUCTIVE FILMS SHOWED AT SCHOOL BY COUNTY BOARD

TAHOE CITY, Mar. 26—Tahoe Lake school students and the Tahoe branch of Placer Union High School viewed three educational sound pictures on Monday morning through the Audio-Visual department of the county board of education.

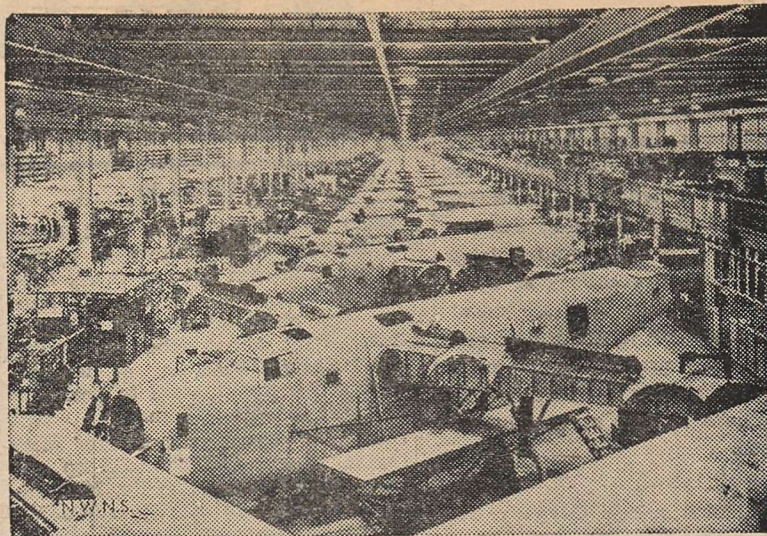

One of the films, released by the Erpi Classroom Films, was "How Nature Protects Animals", showing zebras, mountain goats, tigers and many bird families such as grouse, pheasant, warblers, shearwaters, and woodpeckers; and insects, all showing protective colorings nature provides in their native habitats.

The second Erpi film was on the training of wild elephants, showing a baby elephant routine as directed by a trainer.

The third film was a University of California Extension release in color and sound called "Old Hickory. It depicted the life of President Andrew Jackson before and after inauguration, the battle of New Orleans and the famous Jackson Day dinner at which the President told the South Carolina representatives who advocated secession in a dispute over tariffs, "Our Federal Union...it must be preserved."

Tahoe school classrooms are bright with an array of springtime and Easter pictures, many of them made by the students themselves.

CARD PARTY DRAWS CROWD TO H and W CLUB AT MEEKS BAY

by MARIAN STUART
MECKS BAY, Mar. 26—A nice crowd attended the benefit card party held at the H and W club house Monday evening, March 23. Bridge and pinocle furnished diversion for the evening with Mrs. Ben Callender and Harry Grayson holding high scores at bridge and Mr. and Mrs. Ray Frazier in pinocle.

Refreshments of sandwiches, pie and coffee were served, after which the group enjoyed dancing.

The next regular meeting of the club will be the monthly potluck supper at the club house Monday evening, March 30. This will be a spring festival party. Members are asked to bring busts and spring flowers and spring clothes will be special features.

Mr. and Mrs. John D. Burns of Tahoe street arrived home on Tuesday from a vacation trip to the home of her parents in Burns, Ore.

Charles Hendricksen of Lake Forest, who is in the army, is studying aviation navigation in Santa Ana.

The county plow spent several days at Tahoe last week clearing out the county roads which were closed since the last storm.

Clarence Vernon, assisted by G. W. Atherton and Henry Wehrman, cleared away the snow from the community center windows where it had been banked up as high as the second story and had frozen into solid ice in several places. Vernon also made several minor repairs to the building.

Victor Wikander, hale and hearty skier who thinks nothing of a long cross-country trek on skis alone, returned on Tuesday from his isolated cabin home on Buck Island Lake, 14 miles back of Chambers Lodge in the Rubicon River country. Wikander, who spends most of the winter in Piedmont, regularly comes up during the snow season several times each winter to make the trip into his cabin where he usually spends 10 or 15 days enjoying skiing and skating on the lake whenever possible. This was his third trip into his cabin this winter and he made the journey in and out on skis in less than five hours one way, finding ideal ski conditions. He was joined Monday by Stein Neilsen and the two expert skiers toured up Tels Peak and surrounding country.

Russell Farley of the state board of equalization and assistant visited local business houses on Tuesday.

—FOR VICTORY :: BUY BONDS— FALLING BODY SEEN AT TAHOE SATURDAY

LAKE TAHOE, Mar. 26—A startling and mysterious phenomenon occurred at Tahoe last Saturday night about nine o'clock in the evening.

Deputy Sheriff Charlie Swanson who stands guard over the Truckee River dam at Tahoe City, reported a blinding white light coming from the Nevada side of the lake toward the west. It seemed to keep dropping from a height about 300 feet above the lake and appeared to be a large globular body with a red tail. Nearing the tree tops, it burst with a hissing noise and gave off a phosphorescent light.

Swanson's observation was independently confirmed by Mrs. James Wilson, postmaster at Pomina, and Henry Soli of Rubicon. The end of the trail of the mysterious body was somewhere between Pomina and Rubicon.

The Placer county sheriff's office and the FBI are investigating to determine the nature of the phenomenon.

A WEEK OF THE WAR

President Roosevelt proclaimed April 6 as Army Day and asked the nation to observe it by resolving firmly "to spare no effort which may contribute to the speedy creation of arms and supplies indispensable to our citizens' army." He said "We are engaged in a our greatest war a war that will leave none of our lives wholly untouched...We shall win this war as we have won every war we have fought..."

War Secretary Stimson announced the army will train 100,000 men and women for civilian jobs as overhaul and repair mechanics, inspectors at government arsenals, etcetera. Men must be outside the age requirements for selective service. Applications may be made at any civil service commission local office. The House passed and sent to the Senate a bill to create a volunteer Army Auxiliary Corps for women between 21 and 45.

Ground Forces Commander McNair reported the army will expand its present nine corps areas to 11 to facilitate handling of 32 new streamlined infantry divisions of 15,300 men each. Commander McNair said a site "west of the Colorado river" has been selected for large scale troop training in modern desert warfare. The Army Institute was established at Madison Wis., to provide correspondence study in more than 65 academic courses for enlisted men with at least four months active service.

SELECTIVE SERVICE

Selective Service Director Hershey, tightening 1-A deferments, directed SS local boards to put aside considerations of "mere convenience and comfort" in determining the deferment of persons necessary to the "national health, safety or interest." The local boards began distribution of four page occupational questionnaires to obtain for the U. S. Employment Service and other agencies full information of the vocational background of men who registered February 16.

Later the questionnaires will be sent to earlier SS registrants. The President set April 27 as the SS Registration Day for all men 44 to 64 inclusive. Director Hershey said as the war progresses, draft deferments will depend more on whether a man's civil operations is essential to the war effort than on his dependents.

RATIONING

The Office of Price Administration announced individual or family consumers will register for sugar rationing May 4, 5, 6 and 7 at public elementary schools. Commercial users will register April 28 and 29 at high schools. All sugar sales in the country will be halted at midnight April 27 for approximately 10 days. One member of a family can register the entire household. Each person will receive a war ration book of 28 stamps.

Coordinator Ickes said a card rationing system for gasoline within six weeks will replace the present 20 percent limitation on deliveries in 17 eastern states, Washington and Oregon and the District of Columbia. The War Production Board said new typewriters produced during the remainder of 1942 will go to the Army Navy and other government agencies. The OPA will ration to civilian users stocks of new machines now held by dealers.

PRODUCTION AND CONVERSION

War Production Chairman Nelson in a recent radio broadcast, said airplane production has increased more than 50 percent since Pearl Harbor, "but this is no reason for false complacency...We are nowhere near our goals..." Commerce Secretary Jones reported the Defense Plant Corporation has made commitments as of March 7 for construction of more than 700 plants. He said the government is spending $600,000,000 for construction of synthetic rubber plants.

SHIPPING

Navy Secretary Knox said of more than 1,000 ships which have cleared New York for southern ports and have observed Navy orders to travel in specially-designated North-South lanes, only five have been sunk. He said the Coast Guard force protecting harbor installations is being increased from 35,000 to 60,000 and a large number of patrol vessels are being added for the entire Atlantic coastline. The Maritime Commission said its liberty ship production program, now on schedule, calls for putting 1,488 new freighters in war service by the end of 1943.

AIR

The President asked Congress for more than $8 billion to expand the Army Air forces by purchase of 148,000 planes in 1942 and 1943. The Civil Aeronautics Administration said its standardization center in Houston, Texas, will soon graduate a class of pilots every 10 days for the Army Ferrying Command. The Office of Education and CAA announced plans for a nation-wide Aviation Education Program in elementary and high schools.

ARMY BROADCASTS FROM FIGHTING FRONTS

The War Department said a series of "Army Hour" broadcasts every Sunday beginning April 5, 3:30 to 4:30 EWT, over the NBC network will link men in the armed forces fighting abroad with American fire-sides in this country. The programs will attempt to promote understanding of military and morale problems. They will mark the first time in U. S. history the Army will directly sponsor and supervise a radio program to accomplish a military mission.

LABOR

President Roosevelt said by far labor shortages probably will begin to develop, although at the present time there is sufficient manpower for war industry. The President states nowhere in the country is anyone prohibited by law from working more than 40 hours a week. WPB Chairman Nelson, addressing CIO leaders in Washington, asked labor to suspend for the duration the privilege of double-time pay for work on Sundays and holidays.

The President ordered the Office of Defense Transportation to seize the strike-bound Toledo, Peoria and Western Railroad and operate it "for the successful prosecution of the war." The President acted after the railroad management rejected repeated government requests that the strike be submitted to arbitration. Labor Secretary Perkins said of the 15 million workers to be employed in war industries by next January, about one-third will be women.

ALIENS

The President established the War Relocation Authority within the Office for Emergency Management to permit persons forced to move from military areas to enlist voluntarily in work corps for the duration of the war. A bill imposing a fine of $5,000 and imprisonment of one year for persons violating regulations in military zones was sent to the White House.

THE WAR FRONT

General Douglas MacArthur accompanied by a staff of officers, broke through the Japanese blockade and proceeded from Bataan peninsula to Melbourne, Australia, to assume supreme command of the forces in that region, including the Philippines. Lt. Gen. Johnathan M. Wainwright succeeded General MacArthur in command of American troops on Bataan. Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek placed Lt. Gen. Joseph W. Stilwell, U. S. Army, in command of the fifth and sixth Chinese armies, operating with British forces in Burma.

CHAPTER 10

About a minute after that Doris saw Lorentz, sitting there in a corner with his arm around Cecil, both of them being gay for a little knot that was gathered around them. I talked along about what a terrible mob Gwenny always had at her parties, but she didn't seem to hear me. She kept watching them.

She must have crossed eyes with Lorentz, because he bounced up and crossed to us. "Doris! Hello, Mr. Borlandland. Come on over, you two. We want Doris to settle an argument. Which is worse, a German man singing 'Trovatore' or an Italian tenor singing 'Lohengrin'?"

"I would have thought you would have come over."

"Why, Doris! I have!"

"A little belatedly, I would say."

"You disappeared! I've been watching my chance!"

"Or for somebody, perhaps, who would be more of a credit to you?"

"Stop it, Doris. She's an old friend. Now come on over and settle the argument. It's deep and we want a real opinion."

He went back. I felt myself getting thick in the collar. "I thought you were through with Hugo."

"I am, but this is a matter of manners."

"How about me looking silly?"

"You?"

"Yes, me. A husband does look pretty silly when his wife picks a jealous row with another man right in front of him."

"Jealous? I jealous of Hugo?"

"You sounded like it."

They came over then. Doris introduced me, Cecil said we had met and didn't look at me. They went on with the argument. With Cecil smiling at her, Doris was herself again. She won the argument, with an imitation of a German lady who used to sing Brunehilde pinch-hitting in "Traviata," as a big favor to the management.

Pretty soon Gwenny went to the middle of the room, began stamping her foot, and, as soon as the mob got quiet, said Cecil was going to sing. But when Cecil went over it wasn't Wilkins who took the piano it was Lorentz. She sang the Titania song from "Mignon."

I had it all the more, this feeling that I wanted to get Doris out of there. With that singing going on there was as much chance of that as there would be of getting a mouse away from a piece of cheese.

After the "Mignon" Cecil sang a little cradle song that's been written on Kreisler's "Caprice Viennois," and then she came over to Doris. "How was I?"

"Marvelous. I never heard you better."

"I thought I was a little off, myself, but they seem to like it, so it's all right. Do a duet with me, Mrs. Borland?"

Doris didn't have to be told how decent that was. It was letting her right into the big-league park. It was treating her as an equal, and she took Cecil's hand and gave it a little shake.

"Tow about 'La Dove Prende'?" Cecil asked.

"Oh, not that! I only know the first part, and—"

"Then I'll sing the second. Come on."

Wilkins took the piano, and they started. It was pretty terrible. Mozart has to be sung to the beat, and I think I told you about Doris' idea of rhythm. I saw Wilkins look up but Cecil dead-panned as they went on. Doris could have sung it backward and that pair would have carried her through. It got a hand and they had a whisper and did the "Barcarolle" from the "Tales of Hoffman."

That was a little more Doris' speed and a little more the mob's speed too, so it went over big—and they came over to me. Doris' face was all aglow.

Cecil laughed, and turned to her. "Well, how was the support?"

"I never knew there could be such support."

"We showed 'em."

"Even if you do try to steal my men."

It wasn't supposed to be a dirty crack. It was just meant for a little gag, something Doris had to get out of her system; then she could forget about Hugo and really be friendly.

Cecil winced as if she had been hit with a whip. Then she looked me straight in the eye, the first time she had all day. "Leonard, why did you lie to me?"

Cecil closed her eyes, opened them again, grabbed for the one last thing she could say: "We saw quite a lot of each other, that's true. We could hardly help that. We were singing together. We were singing in the same opera company, and—"

Doris gave a shrieking laugh and half the room stopped talking and looked around. Gwenny came up. Doris put her head on her shoulder and kept on with that laugh. Then she turned to them all. "Oh, my— isn't this funny? If they took a trip together—I don't mind. It means nothing to me—let them enjoy life while they're young. But, darlings! Singing together! In the same—I can't stand it! Imagine Leonard singing—ha-ha-ha-ha!"

Gwenny decided to play it funny. She laughed, too. A few others laughed. Then she decided to get witty. "Perhaps he'll sing us something! From 'Pagliacci'!"

If that was what she said, I think I could have stood it. But that wasn't it. What she really said was "From Polly-achy," and at the dumb ignorant way she pronounced that word, something in me racked. All the rotten, phoney, cruel mean stuff I had taken from Doris, and all the stuff I had taken from Gwenny and her kind, came swelling up in my throat. I turned to Gwenny: "Since you ask me, I think I will."

I went into the dining-room and found Wilkins. He hadn't heard any of it. "Feel like playing for me?"

"Sure. What'll it be?"

"How about the 'Prolongue' from 'Pagliacci'?"

"The 'Prolongue' it is."

We went in and there was a laugh and they all started to whisper. He started the introduction, and they looked at me, and looked at Doris. They were her friends, remember not mine.

Cecil came over: "I wouldn't, baby. It was awful, but—I wouldn't. You'll regret it."

"Maybe."

She went away and I started to sing. At the first "Si puo," Doris sank into a chair. She didn't turn white; she turned gray. I went on. Maybe some of the big shots in opera can do it better, but I doubt it. They couldn't take the interest in it, you might say, that I took. I rolled it out and my head felt light and dizzy, because I could see every note of it going like a knife into her heart.

When I got to the andante I gave it the gun, and when I reached the high A flat I stepped into it with a smile on my face, and held it, and swelled it, until the room began to shake; then I pulled it in, and cut I closed it out solemn as I knew.

Wilkins played the finish, and waited. Nothing happened. They sat there as if they were frozen, and then they began to talk, as if I wasn't there. He looked at me, as if he was in a madhouse or something. I smiled at him, and bowed three times, the way I was taught, center, left and right. Then I went over and poured myself a drink. When I turned around Doris was leaving the room. She walked as if she had just gone blind.

I don't know how I got out of there. But pretty soon I was down on the twelfth floor, where you change from the private elevator which runs up to the penthouse, to the main cars. Cecil was there, with Wilkins. When they saw me they stopped talking. We went down, and on the street a cab came up. Wilkins offered us a lift, but he had a dinner date uptown instead of down. So I told him to take the cab, and I sent the doorman after another one. He went off, and I stood there looking Cecil up and down, and decided she was what I wanted in the way of a woman and that I was going to hook up with her for the rest of my life. Maybe the love part wouldn't be so hot, anyway on my part, but I had had all I wanted of that. She was decent, and you could stick to her and not feel you had a viper on your chest every time you put your arms around her. I hooked my arm in hers and pressed it.

The doorman came, riding the running board of the cab, and I put her in. I fished in my pocket to tip him, and heard the cab door slam. I looked up, and it was moving away and all I could see was a gloved hand waving at me from the window. In another second it was gone.

I started down the street. Then I wondered where I was going. Here I had just made a decision that was to change my whole life, and now it seemed to have evaporated into thin air. I crossed Park Avenue and headed for home. My legs felt queer and I couldn't seem to walk straight. I remembered I had had four drinks. Then I heard myself laugh. It wasn't the four drinks.

I let myself into the house and the hall was dark, and upstairs I could hear Evelyn crying. I opened my mouth to call and nothing came out. I groped for the switch. Then I heard a rustle behind me. I half turned, and felt something horrible coming at me. It hit me. She was panting like an animal and struck my face with both hands at once. Those claws raked me. All the time she was talking to me, not loud, but in a terrible whisper:

"You would do that to me...you beast...you swine...you can have her...what do I care who you have...but that...but that...Get out of here...Get out of here! Get out of here!"

He voice rose to a scream at that and upstairs both children began to wall, and I pushed her away, got the door open and staggered down the steps to the street.

I spent that night at the nearest hotel. I had some dinner and I didn't know what I was eating. Then it was nine o'clock and there wasn't anything to do but to go to bed.

I turned off the lights and tried to sleep. I didn't seem to be thinking about anything at all. But every time I'd drop off I'd wake up, dreaming I was standing beside Gwenny's piano bellowing at the top of my lungs and nobody would even turn around and look at me. Then one time this horrible thing was coming at me in the dark and I woke up moaning.

17,000 TIRES GO INTO CONSTRUCTION OF
U. S. BATTLESHIP

Rubber used in the construction of a battleship is enough for 17,000 tires and a 28-ton tank requires the rubber equivalent of 124 tires, according to data received by the California State Automobile Association.

Another "statistic" on the use of rubber in the war effort shows that enough of the material to manufacture 260 tires is used for a 10-ton military pontoon bridge.

U. S. Fliers Adrift in Pacific 34 Days

TWO MILLION PAIR OF PANTS FOR ARMY

Quartermaster Corps Distributes Contracts

Proof that huge contracts being placed by the quartermaster corps for clothing and countless other supplies for the Army, are well distributed to many firms in many states, may be found in the recent announcement.

Green Was My Valley, Abbott and Costello's Keep 'Em Flying", Sullivan's travels, the movie version of Edison Marshall's best seller, "Benjamin Blake," Son of Fury; It Started Eve, starring Deanna Durbin and Charles Laughton, The Corsican Brothers with Doug Fairbanks, Jr.; Unfinished Business, Wolf Man and others worthy of patronage.

cement by the War Department that a recent purchase by the corps of more than two million pairs of soldiers' working trousers will be allocated to 37 bidders, located in 19 states.

To make possible a wide distribution of awards, a reasonable maximum was set on the quantity to be awarded any single plant, and a ceiling price was established, based on current market conditions. Then, starting with the lowest bidder each state, awards were made progressing upward in point of price until the state quota was reached.

THE ANGELS OF HIS PRESENCE

ONE of the hopeful and encouraging signs of the times is a reaching out on the part of an increasing number of people to a power beyond the human, in which they may find a refuge, guide, protector, and friend. This human yearning for something dependable on which to lean in trying times, for something stable in the midst of confusion, for that which will replace dismay and despair with confidence and hope, is understandable and reasonable. Further, it can be productive of results. Nearly two thousand years ago Jesus said (Matthew 7:7), "Ask, and it shall be given you; seek, and ye shall find; knock, and it shall be opened unto you." These promises still stand. All through the years those who have sought God sincerely and humbly have found Him close at hand. . . .

Mary Baker Eddy in "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" (page 581) defines "angels" as follows: "God's thoughts passing to man; spiritual intuitions, pure and perfect; the inspiration of goodness, purity, and immortality, counteracting all evil, sensuality, and mortality." That this definition is in accord with the Scriptural meaning of the word is evidenced by many incidents of divine guidance and protection related in the Bible. . . .

Throughout the Old and the New Testament there are many references to angels. These heavenly messengers, "spiritual intuitions," brought comfort, guidance, explicit commands, and, when heeded and obeyed, never failed to bless. Jacob experienced a bitter struggle with a false sense of selfhood, of life as material, until an angel appeared to him. And not until he thoroughly understood the message and received God's blessing, would he let the angel go. Then he was transformed. . . .

In the twelfth chapter of the Acts of the Apostles, we read of the angel that delivered Peter when he was cast into prison, bound in chains. Because he listened and obeyed the angelic message, Peter found himself unbound and free. Angels ministered to Jesus after his vigil in the wilderness—pure and perfect thoughts from God, which came to our great Way-shower at the outset of his wonderful career of service to mankind.

Today, as then, God, divine Love, reveals Himself to every honest seeker for Truth. To all who humbly and earnestly look to God for help, thus acknowledging His power, angels, "God's thoughts passing to man," bring the needed inspiration, direction, comfort, love, and protection. There is no situation too complicated, no sin too deep, no disease too hopeless, no burden too great, to be reached and healed by God, divine Mind. Even if the call for help is faint and hesitant, Love is always present, and he who turns to God finds Him near. The Father-Mother God is constantly blessing man, His own idea, and providing for his every need. But we must place ourselves in the position to receive the blessing. We cannot receive it by denying God's presence and power; but in reaching out to Him, no matter how hesitatingly, we put ourselves where we can receive and utilize the good that is always available. Then, encouraged and strengthened, we may increase our understanding of God until we know Him as ever-present Life and Love, and begin to appreciate the perfection of His creation, including man in His image and likeness.

Many of those who now on land, in the air, or on the sea, are doing their part in preserving the freedom and liberty so dear to all right-minded men, are proving repeatedly that protection, sure guidance, and safety are assured when thought is turned to God, and His righteous government of His own creation acknowledged. So did a similar turning to God deliver the Israelites many times in Biblical days.

The angels of His presence must be sought and made welcome. Then, in their radiant light, evil of every kind fades and disappears. When we strive to understand the heavenly message, as did Jacob, and drink deep of spiritual inspiration, as did Jesus, there will come to us "the inspiration of goodness, purity, and immortality, counteracting all evil, sensuality, and mortality." Thus is God's love for His beloved child made known. . . .
